<td>Edge wear to corners of book. Fep has brown staining. Rough cut end pages. Ex lib with the usual stamps and markings. There are few stiller things than the stillness of a summers noon such a this, a summers noon in a broken woodland with the deer asleep in the braken, and the twitter of birds silent in the coppice, and hardly a leaf astir in the huge beeches that fling their cool shade over the grass. Afar off a gilded vane flares out above the grey Jacobean Gables of Knoll, the chime of a village clock falls faintly on the ear, but there is no voice or footfall of living thing to break the silence as I turn over leaf after leaf of the book I have brought with me from the bustle of town to this still retreat, a book that is the record of a broken life, broken off, as he who lived it says of another, with a ragged edge. It is a book that carries one far from the woodland stillness around into the din and turmoil of cities.</td>

I was born in the year 1632, in the city of York, of a good family, though not of that country, my father being a foreigner, of Bremen, who settled at Hull. he got a good estate by merchandise, and leaving off his trade, lived afterward at York from whence he had married my mother whose relations were named Robinson, a very good family in that country, and after whom i was called Robinson Kreutznaer but by the usual corruption of words in England, we are now called, nay we call ourselves and write our name Crusoe, and so my companions always called me.</td>

<td>It happened in 1914 is the first part of the Olaf Tetralogy. A book that can be appreciated on several levels, as a human document, it is a deeply penetrating account of a boys transition from childhood to adolescence, but more particularly, it is the story of a gifted but under privileged youth preparing to break out of the bleak enviroment of an Arctic province. As such it is a vivid recreation of a process that the Author himself, like so many other proletarian writers throughout Europe, undertook earlier this century, and the hero can be seen as representative of the major social convulsions of our time. £3.50 postage and packing.</td>
